Nehru Invites Chou to Confab Over Dispute

Proposal Reverses Previous Stand Against Meeting

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru has invited Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to talk with him in New Delhi on the Chinese-Indian border dispute.

Nehru invited Chou to come at his convenience but suggested the second half of March as a likely time.

Made Public Today

His letter of invitation was dated Feb. 5. It was made public in Parliament today.

Nehru's agreement to meet with Chou reversed the Indian Premier's previous stand that such a top-level negotiating session would have no value as things stood in the border dispute.

Nehru maintained his view that the two governments are still far apart, saying in his letter, "For the moment I do not see any common ground between our respective standpoints."

"Still, I think it might be helpful for us to meet," he added.

India and China are disputing 51,000 square miles of Himalayan territory between northern India and Tibet.

Sent Troops Into Asia

Despite India's insistence that the largely uninhabited territory is hers, the Chinese have sent troops into the area and have clashed with Indian border guards and patrols.

China has proposed that armed forces of both nations withdraw from the area but that civil authorities of each government remain in control of positions they hold while the two governments negotiate.

India rejected this proposal, contending it would constitute recognition of a sort of Chinese control over territory which India claims is hers. Nehru proposed that the disputed area be made a military no man's land but that India resume control of sectors now occupied by the Chinese.

Paar to Leave For Vacation In S. America

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Paar says he hopes to leave today or Tuesday for a long vacation in South America. When he gets back, he says, he'll meet with officials of the National Broadcasting Co.

Announcer Hugh Downs will appear tonight as master of ceremonies of Paar's television show. The comedian walked out during the show Thursday night, furious because NBC had cut one of his jokes off the program the night before.

Paar said then he wouldn't return to the show, despite his contract with NBC. Sunday he said: "I still hope I don't have to go back to the 'Tonight' show. But I don't want to be sued."

NBC apologized to Paar for not notifying him in advance that the joke had been edited out of his taped program. But the network defended its right to make the deletion. NBC said the joke was in bad taste.

At his Bronxville, N.Y., home Paar said: "I'm going to fly to South America either Monday or Tuesday."

NBC reportedly receives a gross income of 10 million dollars annually from the Paar show. The star is believed to be paid about $4,100 a week.

"I don't think the show will last long unless they get somebody to take over," Paar said. "Already, I'm told, some of the sponsors are anxious and the talent is quitting. Genevieve has quit, Charley Weaver—Cliff Arquette—has quit and I don't want anything to happen to Jose Melis."

Paar said he hopes his vacation will last "a good long time." He said he planned to move around often to avoid further comment during the South American trip.

Snow Closes Rural Schools

8-Inch Fall Recorded Here

Streets, Principal Highways Are Open

All rural schools in the district with the exception of Mahoning Local, were closed today in the wake of the winter's worst storm which dumped from six to eight inches of snow on the ground over the weekend.

Strong winds drifted the snow, making it difficult to get exact measurements.

All rural schools in Columbiana County did not open this morning because of hazardous road conditions. Leetonia and East Palestine schools were shut, but classes were held at Lisbon as usual.

Although Mahoning Local schools opened Greenford school in Mahoning County was closed.

Unscheduled vacations also were afforded many school pupils today Jefferson County and across the state line in Beaver County, Pa. Many secondary roads were drifted.

Street Crews Kept Busy

Locally, state and county highways were open after road crews worked around the clock after the Saturday night. Many roads were drifted but snowplows kept all principal thoroughfares open.

City service department workers were called out Saturday night and continued to work Sunday. All men and equipment were pressed into service to keep streets open. Snowplows worked around stalled parked cars.

Snow in the downtown section was hauled away in trucks.

Residents found plenty of snow to shovel, opening up walks and driveways. Children enjoyed the weekend thoroughly, romping in what was the winter's best snowstorm as far as they were concerned.

Motorists with snowties had no difficulty getting about. Traffic accidents were few.

The Ohio Turnpike was posted with 40-mile-an-hour signs because

Senate Moves Into Civil Rights Controversy

Southern Lawmakers Ready to Spring Delaying Actions

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate divided into three camps moves gingerly today into politically charged controversy over civil rights.

Embattled Southerners, expecting the worst, were ready to spring any of several delaying traps against a move to bring a bill before the Senate.

Liberals of both political parties, advocating stronger legislation than even they will say is likely to be passed, pushed for speedy action.

In the middle ground stood Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, heading the forces that want some relatively modest but measurable gains chalked up in the protection of minority voting rights.

None of the three camps had a demonstrated majority as the long-planned starting date of the civil rights battle arrived.

The first test was scheduled late in the day on an effort to call up from the Senate calendar a bill previously passed by the House and attach civil rights proposals to it.

Many days of talk and possible round-the-clock sessions lay ahead. It seemed inevitable, however, that the liberals and the middle ground members eventually would join forces to overpower the little band of Southern dissenters.

If necessary, there apparently would be forthcoming the required approval of two-thirds of those voting to clamp a debate limitation on them and thus guarantee eventual passage of a bill.

Form Remains In Doubt

What form that legislation might take remained wrapped in doubt as Democratic presidential hopefuls vied with Eisenhower administration leaders to share in the credit for federal aid to disfranchised minority voters.

As a presidential hopeful, Johnson seemed likely to move toward a position where he could attract Northern Democratic support for the nomination. But he could not move so far away from the Southerners as to lose even their begrudging backing as the candidate least offensive to them.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said the Dixie contingent is under no illusion that it can prevent the passage of a civil rights bill in an election year. He said all of the political trappings are at hand for what he called "a Roman circus" with Southerners as victims.

Sub Still Evades Argentina's Navy

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's frustrated navy today pressed its attack on a mystery submarine with new deep - level U.S. depth charges, but the quarry evaded capture.

As the hunt went into its 17th day, naval officials said their ships were being harassed by a second sub which had slipped through the guarded entrance to Golfo Nuevo in an effort to divert the chase from its apparently damaged comrade.

All Argentina waited for "operation sinking" to produce some results after Navy Secretary Gaston Clement's boast Sunday that the search would reach a climax "in a matter of hours."

The United States said it has no information of any of its subs in the area. The British deny the subs are theirs. And the Soviet embassy Sunday night issued a statement saying no Russian warship is near the Argentina coast.

Report Lists Suggestions For Revenue

The Joint Committee on City Finances, which for the past month has been investigating the need for a city income tax of six-tenths of one per cent as recommended by City Council, announced today it is opposed to adoption of a city income tax at this time.

The group, which is the combination of a Chamber of Commerce Committee and a committee named by Mayor Dean B. Cranmer, was chairmanned by D. Norman Eckfeld, manager of the local branch of the Home Savings & Loan Co.

It began its studies Jan. 15 after City Council decided, at the request of the Chamber, to hold up final passage of a city income tax ordinance which was intended to go into effect Feb. 1.

The Joint Committee's recommendation to Council is that the proposed income tax not be adopted.

In a five-page report, the Committee points out that the city will end the year (1960) in the black in the general fund and that no emergency now exists with regard to general operating funds, nor is there any indication of curtailment of present services.

The Committee refers to the income tax as "another bureaucratic nuisance" and cites reasons why it is against an income tax.

The Committee recommends alternate steps for increasing general fund revenues, including the sale to the Ohio Edison Co. of the city-owned street lighting system.

On a long-range basis, the Committee recommends a municipal charter for Salem, wherein general operating millage could be raised above the statutory 10 mills.

The full report of the Committee, adopted unanimously by its members, Joseph A. Pidgeon, Walter B. Null, Guy J. Mauro, Gail C. Heron, the Rev. William Snowball, George H. Bowman, Stephen A. Gonda, Donald E. Beeler, Arthur J. Herron, John Taylor, Mrs. G. E. Farrington, Walter J. Hunston, Thomas H. Coe, Lloyd M. Gordon and Mayor Cranmer is as follows:

I. The problem that exists. The problem that presently exists as outlined by City Council is — If additional funds are not available, a drastic curtailment of present services would have to be effected in 1960. Council's answer to shortage of funds would be the initiation of a 6-mill income tax levy, on an emergency basis.

II. Purpose of Joint Committee on City Finances. The purpose of the Combined Committee is to determine whether an income tax this year is necessary, and, or, is advisable at this time; if so, how much and if not advisable, what alternatives should be suggested.

III. Facts pertinent to problem. The Jan. 1, 1958, balance in the General Operating Fund was $59,656.84. After receipts for the year 1958 of $258,804.61, and expenditures of $277,705.50, this balance was reduced to $40,555.95 — a net reduction in year-end balance of $19,100.89.

In 1959, however the City General Fund received a record income of $277,536.06, or about $19,000 more income than in 1958 and $17,000 more than in 1957.

If 1959 expenditures had been held to the same level as in 1958, there would have been no reduction whatsoever in the 1958 year-end balance of $40,555.95.

Expenditures, however were not held to the level of 1958. They increased to a record amount of $286,299.90, or $8,763.84 more than receipts. The year-end balance was consequently reduced by the same amount and for the current year beginning 1960, the balance was $31,792.11.

While actual cash receipts left a book balance of $14,578.12 at the end of 1959, receipt of a delayed payment of $17,213.99 from the County Auditor on January 12, 1960 brought the actual balance for the 1959 operating year to $31,792.11.

A survey of 1959 expenditures shows that nonrecurring disbursements of $5,025 for garbage disposal lands, $3,900 for the Comprehensive Plan and approximately $5,000 for street lighting equipment were made. These unusual expenditures total approximately $14,000.

If the same services are to be provided by the General Operating Fund for 1960 as were provided in 1959, and unusual or nonrecurring expenditures again this year do not exceed the $14,000 thus spent last year; and assuming that total receipts will not be materially reduced, we may expect that the year 1960 will not produce a further reduction in year-end balances of more than approximately $9,000.00.

Some capital expenditures will, of course, be required. There is need for new police cruisers, street signs, and similar necessities, and the $14,000 figure mentioned above takes these items into account.

What are the possibilities of a reduction of General Fund income for 1960?

Insofar as general property tax receipts are concerned, there should be some small improvements. The Committee has been advised by County Auditor Bell that our tax duplicate is now $38,200,000, and that we may expect disbursements of 100 per cent of the applicable tax rate on that amount. Inheritance tax receipts may reasonably be expected to decline from the unprecedented high of $36,551.53 in 1959 to something near the average of $15,000 to $20,000, but this is speculation.

Parking meters have not shown any trend toward increased revenue and miscellaneous sources such as fines, permits, and sales and cigarettes taxes will depend upon consumer activity.

By a conservative estimate, therefore we might reasonably expect a reduction of as much as $15,000 in General Fund receipts for 1960. This, together with a duplication of last year's expenditures would reduce our 1960 year-end balance to approximately $7,000 or $8,000, which would not permit a duplication of current expenditures again in 1961.

The Joint Committee feels additional income and some new economies will be necessary if we are to conserve our current operating fund balance in the face of possibly reduced income.

The Committee has further taken into consideration the fact that the proposed income tax ordinance as now written, earmarks the anticipated revenue primarily for capital improvements and not for any appreciable relief for the General Fund other than in the event that tax receipts should be in excess of the amounts required for such improvements.

IV. It is recommended by the Joint Committee that the proposed 6-mill income tax be not adopted for the following reasons:

1—No emergency now exists with regard to general operating funds, nor is any curtailment of present services indicated for the immediate future if disbursements through the year 1960 are economically made.

2—Some alternatives, less drastic in nature than the imposition of an income tax should be made in order to increase general operating revenue and reduce waste.

3—Income taxes are not sufficiently reliable for the production of general operating revenue. General unemployment, strikes or depressions can seriously reduce anticipated operating receipts, and conversely, exceptionally prosperous times with full employment, can produce tax revenue far in excess of the actual need. Basic municipal services such as fire, police, health and safety must rely upon the most dependable and predictable sources for operating revenue.

4—The fixed costs of setting up an income tax department, together with the continuing costs of administration are disproportionately high in comparison to the revenue obtained.

5—The major utilities would be indirectly relieved of the cost of municipal income taxes despite the fact that they will share proportionately.

Nation's East Belted by Storm

38 Deaths Caused; Damages Are Heavy

By The Associated Press
Winter's most violent weather, a two-day combination of gale-whipped snow and sleet, staggered most of the Eastern quarter of the country over the weekend.
The crippling storm, which left a blanket of snow across the Southland, hammered more than a dozen Eastern states Sunday.
It diminished during the night but snow and strong winds continued to lash areas from the upper Ohio Valley into New York and New England. Winds of 40 m.p.h. pounded sections of New York causing considerable drifting of snow.

Deaths from the weekend of stormy weather, winter's worst in many areas, mounted to at least 38. Most of the were attributed to heart attacks while shoveling snow or in accidents on icy or snow-slicked highways.

Property damage was expected to run into the thousands of dollars.

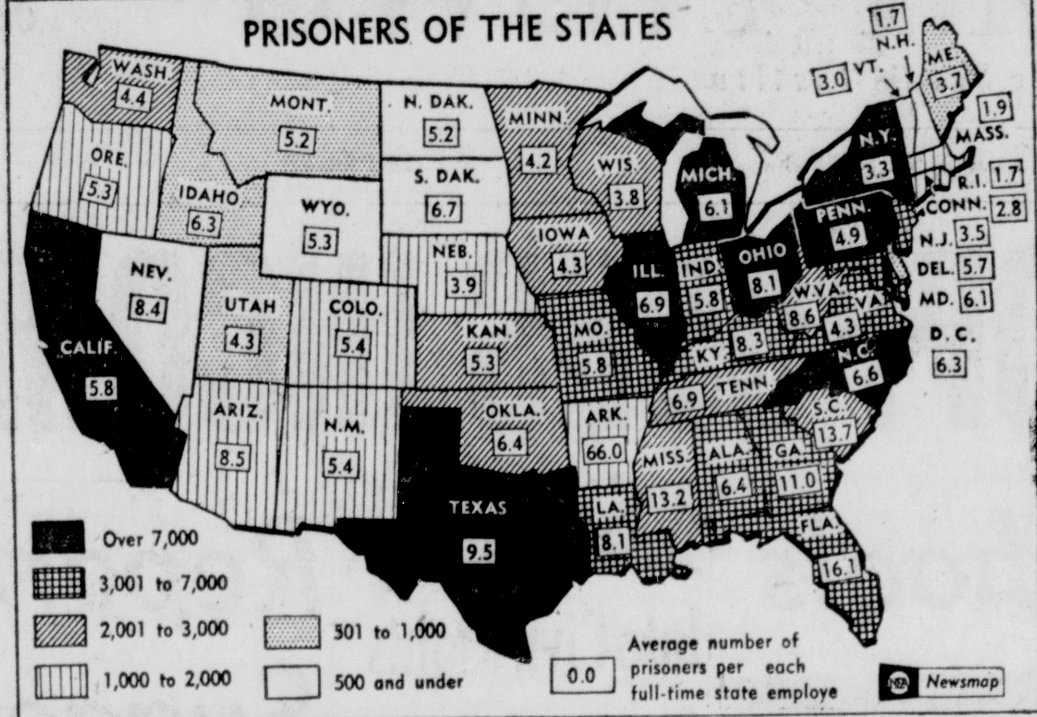

The roving storm, after plastering Dixie with as much as 16 inches of snow, rocked areas from eastern Ohio to the Atlantic Coast and into New England.

Travel-air, highway and train—was sharply curtailed. Thousands of autos and trucks were abandoned on snow-clogged highways, in rural areas and in cities. Scores of air flights were canceled. Train and bus service slowed. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was among the hundreds stranded in the worst storm in 10 years in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Hundreds of schools from Ohio into Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina were ordered closed to day. Other schools in the snow-bound Northeast were not expected to open. Driving conditions were hazardous from Ohio into deep in the South and across the Northeast snow belt.

Cold weather was an added misery in the Northeast storm zone. Temperatures were in the teens in most of the snow-covered sections from eastern Kentucky and Tennessee into New York.

Biting, gusty winds off Lake Erie drifted snow up to 10 feet high in upstate New York. The ground was covered with falls up to 18 inches. More than a foot of snow was general in many areas. The severe winds churned up abnormally high tides against the New England coast. Swirling waters blocked dozens of roads on the Connecticut shoreline.

BEHIND PRISON WALLS — At the close of 1958 there were 185,425 persons in state institutions for adult offenders, reports the Justice Department. Supervising them were 32,912 prison employees. Newsmap above shows the approximate number of prisoners in each state, together with the ratio between prisoners and supervisory personnel. This ratio ranged from 1.7 in New Hampshire and Rhode Island to 66.0 in Arkansas (where prisoners are used as guards). For the nation as a whole it was 5.6. This was down from 6.4 in 1950, although prison population had increased by some 40,000 during the eight-year period.

Gale warnings remained displayed from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Eastport, Maine. The sleet which pelted New England areas changed to snow as colder air swept into the storm belt.

Pennsylvania, which had an unofficial snowfall of 20 inches in Bradford, reported 9 deaths attributed to the stormy weather.

The South also counted a heavy toll in storm deaths, including 7 in Virginia, which was hit by snowfalls up to 16 inches. Other deaths included 6 in New Jersey, 5 in New York; 3 each in Tennessee, Ohio and Kentucky; 2 in North Carolina and 1 each in Louisiana, Mississippi and Massachusetts.

Fireplaces Can Be Attractive, Practical --- If They Work

A fireplace is a thing of beauty. It's also pretty useful. But in too many homes it sits idle during chilly evenings. Just because it smoked once when you tried to use it is no reason to give up on it.

If your fireplace smokes it's because of insufficient draft. And insufficient draft is a problem with many causes, most of which you can take care of.

Soot Problems

Before you attempt to light the fire check the chimney to see if it's clogged. A heavy coating of soot can choke off most of the needed air. So can a loosened brick that's become dislodged. Poke around with a long pole, but keep out of the way of falling debris.

A brush on a flexible, long wire handle will clear out much of the loose soot from below. For a thorough cleaning you'll have to weighted burlap bag or a chain fastened to a length of rope into the chimney. Run it up and down a few times.

Make certain that the fireplace opening is covered before cleaning the chimney.

You may find that the damper has become old and rusty and isn't closing all the way. If you can remove the damper, clean it thoroughly. If it looks as though it needs repair, or if it doesn't seat itself properly when closed, have it repaired by a professional.

Check the chimney for loose mortar joints that could cause air leaks. Check its height. It should be at least two feet higher than the roof top to avoid downdrafts caused by flow of air over the roof. Clear away overhanging branches if there are any.

Flue Woes

Measure the flue opening. When you get back down to earth, measure the fireplace opening. The flue area should be 1-12th the fireplace opening (or the opening should be 12 times the flue area, if you prefer looking at it that way.) If the fireplace is too large for the flue, build up several rows of bricks at the bottom or sides to get the right proportion. Often, the addition of a metal hood will reduce the size enough.

There may be nothing wrong with your fireplace except its location. If it's one that lacks ventilation, give it some. Most modern homes are too well insulated to permit a fire to burn properly. Open a window slightly and it may solve your problems.

Cold Chimney

If smoking occurs only when the fire is first started your trouble may be nothing more than a cold chimney. This is especially true with exterior chimneys. Plenty of warm air is needed to rise and take the smoke along with it. Preheat the chimney with lighted newspapers held near the top of the fireplace.

Build the fire close to the back. This will heat up the back wall, prevent a pocket of cold air that would interfere with the draft. Anyway, a fire built too far forward would probably blow smoke in your face regardless of the condition of the fireplace.

YOUR Electrical System

is one of the most important items in your home. Have it installed by competent workmen who are covered by all types of insurance for your protection.

Builders Find 8-Foot Doors Are Practical

More builders are using floor-to-ceiling doors in their new houses to reduce costs, improve room circulation and lower operating expense.

Eight-foot doors, faced with smooth - on both - sides Masonite Dorlux, are superior to conventional doors in attractiveness and economy. Ceiling height doors make rooms appear larger, and they lower construction cost about $12 per door by eliminating headers over the door.

Better ventilation throughout the house and lower cost for heating and air-conditioning are also possible with eight-foot doors, because air is not trapped above doorways.

When houses settle, cracks often develop in plaster or gypsum board above conventional doors. This problem also is eliminated with floor-to-ceiling doors. Faced with durable hardboard panels, which won't splinter or crack from hard wear or abrasions, eight-foot doors are extremely long lasting, and they will never sag.

Floor to ceiling doors can be hung conventionally on three hinges.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: Can you tell me how to remove whitewash from poured concrete walls?

ANSWER: It can be washed off. Use hot water and a stiff brush. With a stubborn case, you may have to do the job twice.

QUESTION: I would like to put down a small brick walk. Can the bricks be laid right in the soil or must they be set in mortar or sand?

ANSWER: They can be set in sand, which should be placed in earth that has been tamped down. The sand foundation should be about two inches deep.

QUESTION: We have a bookcase that was shellacked several years ago. There are several white spots on the top shelf, possibly caused by water glasses placed there. How can the spots be removed?

ANSWER: Wipe the spots gently with a cloth dampened with denatured alcohol. Don't rub too hard or you may take off part of the finish, in which case you would have to apply another coat of shellac. You can prevent future trouble of that nature by applying some paste wax to the top of the bookcase.

QUESTION: My husband wants to use steel wool to clean the surface of our electric iron. Is this all right?

ANSWER: Yes. Steel wool is fine for this purpose.

CONTEMPORARY GEM — From the front this looks like an ordinary three-bedroom ranch. Looks, however, are deceiving. Putting Down Floor Tiles Mainly Matter of Patience

Much of the popularity of resilient tile flooring in recent years apparently is due to the fact that almost anyone can install it.

Many do-it-yourself projects require a certain amount of skill to achieve good results. But putting down floor tile is mainly a matter of patience. If you can cement a single tile to the floor, you can cement dozens of them, assuming that you follow directions and exercise the same care with all the tiles as with the first one.

High on the list of resilient flooring tiles which have found favor are those made of vinyl. They come in a wide variety of color patterns and are easy to keep clean. There was a time when vinyl tile was not recommended for concrete surfaces below ground, such as in basements. But by using certain kinds of vinyl, with a special adhesive, even those installations now are possible. Your dealer can fill you in on this at the time you purchase the tiles.

On new wood strip floors, or old ones in good condition, asphalt-saturated felt paper is first cemented to the floor, with the tile cemented to the paper. On old wood strip floors, first nail down any loose or broken boards. When the strips are less than four inches wide, install quarter - inch plywood or quarter-inch hardboard under layment before putting down the tile. When the strips are four inches or wider, the plywood or hardboard should be a little thicker — three-eighths of an inch or half-an-inch.

The tiles can be placed directly over concrete, under the conditions previously outlined, after cracks and holes have been filled and all grease, wax and dirt removed. However, if the concrete floor has been painted with an oil-base paint, it is wise to remove it first with a sanding machine equipped with an open coat paper. This is not necessary if the paint has a rubber base.

Installing the tiles is merely a case of putting one tile against another, one the measurements have been made and the pattern selected. The trick, if there is one, is to place each tile firmly against a tile already in position and lower it into position. In other words, do not slide the tile into place, since this causes the adhesive to ooze up between the tiles.

80% Increase In Need for Housing Lumber Predicted

Demand for housing lumber will increase 80 per cent in the next decade, reports Joseph L. Fisher, associate director of Resources for the Future, Inc.

Fisher says by 1970, the home building industry in the U.S. will need 20 billion board feet of lumber a year compared to 13.5 billion feet now used in an average year.

While substitutes are making some inroads into lumber use in home construction, Fisher pointed out that a home is a traditional affair and most people, when they buy a home, want certain things in it. The bulk of the houses are wooden houses, and people demand wood in more and more areas of the home than ever before.

Can we supply the increasing demands for lumber? The question was asked of H. V. Simpson, executive vice president of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association whose member sawmills supply a third of the country's current lumber requirements.

"We are making giant strides in learning how to grow more timber faster," Simpson said. "I believe that the Douglas fir region of western Oregon, Washington and California will be able to maintain indefinitely a supply of quality lumber in excess of our current output."

Cost-Plus At $1,000 a Minute

Since the fact is that no one knows how to get rid of the farm problem, all discussions should start from there.

This problem could lick the Republican party in this year's national election, because resentment will be aimed at its presidential candidate and its nominees for the House of Representatives.

It is as though the government had continued to pay the auto industry to build cost-plus vehicles ever since World War II, with no buyers for millions of unwanted cars. This excess rolling stock now would be in warehouses, like surplus wheat, depressing the market for the 1960 output.

The United States would have autos running out of its ears, instead of 3½ billion dollars' worth of wheat that no one wants to buy costing the government $1,000 a minute. Tens of thousands of people in the Detroit area would be relying on government payments to keep their heads above water. Warehouse owners would be getting fat and sassy off this absurdly uneconomic use of their property.

EVERY POLITICIAN with votes involved—and there are more votes involved in autos than in wheat—would be currying favor by his bleeding-heart friendship for the automobile workers and their associates in the parts supplies industries.

Anyone who dared to complain that all this was costing the United States an unpenny penny and the whole thing had become nonsensical would be marched to the stocks and wet down with old crankcase oil, just as Agriculture Secretary Benson is abused whenever he suggests that cost-plus for wheat farmers should have been discontinued at the end of World War II.

Though agricultural cost-plusing is not strictly a partisan issue, because many wheat-state representatives are Republican and many of these men and women believe their political survival depends on maintaining the status quo, it is being used successfully as a partisan issue by Democrats.

Hence, President Eisenhower's challenge to the Democratic party to come up with a better policy than the Benson policy, which is to wash out cost-plusing as quickly as possible and put wheat farmers back on their own responsibility.

THIS WILL NOT solve the farm problem. No one is going to solve the farm problem, because it is being caused in this country by wholesale displacement of the agricultural population. The government has tried to ease the blow by subsidizing agriculture, to the net effect of worsening the situation, instead of improving it.

When the Democratic party controlled the White House as well as Congress, it had no solution for the problem. Today it controls Congress and would like to recapture the White House. It is counting heavily on discontent among the farm population to keep it in control of Congress and to restore it to control of the White House.

President Eisenhower has asked to see its agricultural cure-all. He knows the Democrats are bluffing. The Democrats know they are bluffing. The game in 1960 is to let voters in the wheat belt know the Democrats are bluffing.

France Grapples With History

Charles de Gaulle is history walking, as his admirers like to feel he is and as his critics glumly admit he is. He has been France's man of the hour so long he has become historic in his own lifetime.

This makes everything else that is happening in France take on an aura of timelessness, too. The recent climax in Algeria now seems to have been the seed of a greater climax developing in metropolitan France.

It was one thing for Frenchmen to be tearing up paving blocks in Algiers to lob at the forces of law and order. That is something that could happen on the other side of the Mediterranean—something to read about and worry about.

But when Frenchmen tear up paving blocks in Amiens and throw them at policemen, discontent in Algiers has turned into discontent at home. The paving-block throwers are not "colons" but citizens of France proper.

Their target, moreover, is not a policy of the government but the government, itself. The policemen who were hurt represent central authority. The figure at the top of the central authority, President De Gaulle, was hurt most grievously of all.

There is no reason to believe De Gaulle wants to preside over an authoritarian government. He wants discipline, not power. But if there continue to be outbreaks of violence in metropolitan France, he will be forced to turn to power to get discipline, and the next step after that would be dictatorship.

That would play into the hand of his enemies. I would be made to order for the Communists. It would give them the issue they must have to create the disorder that is the prerequisite for violence.

These are the patterns of history. These are the problems President De Gaulle must solve to save France. Algeria was not the beginning. It was not the end. The republicanism of France is being challenged preemptorily by the reaction of the Communist conspiracy. That is the beginning—and it could be the end.

Filling the Soil Bank

In a close analysis of the new recommendations for cutting down agricultural surplus at the source, instead of hiding it in warehouses, the proposal everybody likes is expansion of the soil bank retirement project. The Eisenhower administration wants to retire 60 million acres, instead of the present 28 million acres of marginal land.

This would be a large enough total to take out of production some of the really productive acreage in the nation's grand total of 350 million acres of harvested land—more than a sixth. Together with the unheralded soil bank deposit of thousands of acres being taken out of production by urban area real estate development, it would make a deep dent in crop-producing land.

The real estate developments that are covering former farm acreage with housing projects are never included in the list of factors helping to reduce agricultural surpluses while helping farmer income. But they are important, because many of them occupy land that once was prime productive acreage. And when this acreage went into the soil bank, its owners sold it for development; there was no subsidy. Without "urban sprawl," the farm surplus problem would be even worse than it is now.

"GREAT!!"

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

In a recent private conversation Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey told friends that the only differences between himself and Sen. John Kennedy are over conservation and natural resources.

Fact is that the man from Minnesota has accepted active Teamsters' support in his drive for the presidency of the United States.

The man from Massachusetts, however, has taken as a badge of merit the fact that Hoffa went into Wisconsin recently and called Kennedy "the most dangerous man in the world."

Reports of conferences between Humphrey's and Hoffa's people are all through the highest labor circles. These reports have hit the Minnesota senator like heavy winds among the autumn leaves. His national labor support has fallen away.

Humphrey has lost more union chiefs recently than there are collegians in a row of phone booths on stuffing days. It will be these national union leaders who will be speaking for labor at the Democratic nominating convention.

Humphrey knows that politics is the art of the possible and that it would be impossible to win the Democratic nomination if he loses the April 5 Wisconsin primary to Jack Kennedy.

MONTHS AGO Humphrey's Badger State lieutenants sought out the Teamsters High command there. It was decided to put Teamsters leaders Emmett Terry on the "Humphrey for President Committee" executive board.

Terry, operating out of Green Bay, is a Hoffa man. He represented Local 75, Drivers, Warehousemen and Dairy Employees, at the great one-man show known as the 1957 Miami Beach Teamster convention. Brother Terry voted for Brother Hoffa.

Terry is a power in the Wisconsin state Teamsters Council and helps to arrange meetings for provisional president Hoffa such as the one near Lake Delton, Wis., on Jan. 24.

There were several hundred truck drivers there unhappy about having to take their orders from the Minnesota Teamsters. They wanted an independent local all their own. Hoffa rented a small plane and landed on the snow covered little runway at the Lake Delton airport.

Braving the northern frosts for the boss, the second international vice president, John T. O'Brien and, ninth vice president, Gordon R. Conklin of St. Paul were waiting.

BROTHER O'BRIEN came in from Chicago to be at the airstrip. And why not? When Hoffa was asked some time ago why he permitted O'Brien to share in more than one million dollars in unheard of commissions on dues paid to Chicago Local 710, Hoffa said, "Oh, that's all right, the members approved it."

It was at the Lake Delton meeting that Hoffa said Kennedy was the world's most dangerous man. During that stay, Hoffa's people, including Emmet Terry, sponsor of Hubert Humphrey, learned that he would be back in Wisconsin "four or five more times" to campaign against Kennedy.

There isn't the slightest insinuation in these reports that Humphrey has anything but distaste for the type of Teamsters practices exposed by the McClellan committee. But national labor leaders point out that he hasn't attempted to discontinue the regular attacks on Kennedy appearing in the Wisconsin Teamsters publication.

MOST IRRITATED of all with Humphrey is pike-driving AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Not only is Meany under constant attack from the Central States Conference of Teamsters, now backing Humphrey but he faces a personal duel with Hoffa in the next few days.

Hoffa has just asked Federal Judge Dickinson Letts for "leave" to cross-examine Meany in out-of-proceedings.

This would be in the form of taking a deposition (affidavit) for presentation in court when Hoffa goes on trial next week on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer of the Teamsters.

Obviously Hoffa is using this as the psychological warfare end of his battle with the national AFL-CIO leadership.

This leadership sees no reason to think kindly of Humphrey, therefore, and has been boycotting some of his campaign receptions around the country.

It's nothing personal. They just think that Hoffa's lieutenants are more than a matter of political expediency—more than a matter of taste.

Russia's Bluff Called

Soviets Reject Ike's Nuclear Test Ban Proposal

Disarmament is a long, long way off. The latest move by the Soviet Union, summarily rejecting America's comprehensive proposal to end nuclear tests, exposes the Communist hypocrisy.

For several years now, the Communists have been carrying on a worldwide propaganda to ban nuclear tests. Alarm has been spread concerning the dangers of radioactive fall out, though no conclusive proof has been forthcoming to show that this is as dangerous as has been claimed.

Many innocent persons throughout the world have been drawn into signing petitions and otherwise spreading alarms about radioactive fall out. Communist agents have been busy behind the scenes propagating many such petitions. The net result was that the United States government began to explore the question of negotiating a ban on nuclear tests.

Now, however, after nearly two years of conferences, the United States is able to prove that the Soviets are not sincere in calling for a ban on nuclear tests. For America proposed that all tests, except certain ones conducted underground, be barred hereafter. Obviously there can be no radioactive fall out that could be damaging to anyone from tests carried on below the ground.

THE CONCLUSION that will be reached generally is that the Soviets are not ready for the inspection program that would be required by an international agreement to make sure that above-ground tests are really abolished. The Soviets all along have tried to limit or restrict the nature of the inspection. Here is a government which poses before the world as anxious to secure an end to nuclear tests and yet it balks on methods of inspection, even though neutral personnel are to be in charge.

The implication is plain that the Soviets have been pressing for the end of nuclear tests solely as a propaganda device and that they have counted all along on America's refusal to agree to their terms.

The United States now has openly challenged the Soviets. Moscow, on the other hand, is, in effect, telling the world that it does not want to stop nuclear tests that produce radioactive fall out.

The conferences at Geneva have been protracted. They have taken on, at times, the appearance of a game.

The Soviets back and fill and, when the propaganda opportunities open up, they try to put the United States in the position of wanting to continue the spread of fallout.

But, it will be asked now, why are the Soviets insistent that their own kind of inspection alone must be accepted and that all tests, including those underground tests which cannot as yet be detected by any system, must be terminated?

If the Soviets sincerely wanted to stop the tests permanently, they could do so overnight by adhering to the American proposal.

WHAT IS BACK of the whole maneuver? The fact is the Soviets know that ending tests of nuclear weapons is not the answer to the worries of the world.

Peoples cannot be certain of peace until the actual production of nuclear bombs is prohibited and both sides have destroyed the nuclear bombs they have already produced.

It is not the tests which constitute a menace to the world but the continued production and possible use of nuclear weapons.

Apparently the Soviet government is not interested in any agreement along these lines and possibly it considers that, if it does sign a treaty to ban nuclear tests, it will be forced to go further — to stop production and use.

So long, on the other hand, as there is propaganda mileage in talking about tests and keeping the subject from being disposed of by agreement at Geneva or elsewhere, the Soviets are likely to continue arguing that they alone favor the movement against radioactive fall out.

Only gullible people and misguided pacifists hereafter will accept their arguments.

Politicians, too, who have gotten headlines out of pleas for abolition of nuclear tests are left without much opportunity to carry on their crusades.

For the United States has really called the Soviet bluff and all the world knows now that the Moscow regime does not dare to sign a treaty agreeing to inspection so as to end nuclear tests and eventually to terminate the production or use of nuclear weapons. Thus have hopes for disarmament once more been dashed to the ground.

GOP Farm Strategy

By JAY G. HAYDEN

President Eisenhower's shift to the heavily Democratic Congress of prime responsibility for agricultural policy was prompted mainly by the demand of farm belt Republicans for at least an even start in the battle for votes next November.

While Vice President Nixon in no wise has been identified as contributing to the presidential pronouncement, one of its effects plainly is to free the hands of the Republican presidential nominee, as well as the Congress, in framing farm policy.

Originally scheduled for presentation to Congress last Thursday, Mr. Eisenhower's message was held up and, as reported, considerably toned down following a protest by Western Republican senators tipped off as to its contents.

AMONG MEMBERS of the latter group, up for re-election, were Senators Allott of Colorado, Dworshak of Idaho, Mundt of South Dakota and Schoepfel of Kansas. Sen. Young of North Dakota, in whose office the meeting occurred, has a special interest because his state will hold an election next June 28 to pick a successor to Sen. Langer, deceased.

That seat is filled temporarily by a Republican, C. Norman Brunsdale, but state law requires an election in June to fill out the rest of Langer's term, ending in 1965.

Sen. Young argued that the result of this North Dakota vote certainly will hinge on the congressional farm debate.

Republican eligibles for the place, including Gov. John E. Davis, are said to be waiting on events in Washington to decide whether they will enter.

The Democratic nominee is expected to be Rep. Quentin Burdick, who turned Democrat to run successfully for the House seat formerly held by his Republican father, Usher Burdick.

Young Burdick focused his attack wholly against Secretary Agriculture Benson but so did Don Short, a Republican freshman from the other North Dakota congressional district. Both ran at large.

Republican senators are seeking re-election this year in Nebraska and Iowa as well as in the states mentioned above.

Democratic senators up for re-election in states with large agricultural constituencies include Humphrey of Minnesota, Douglas of Illinois, McNamara of Michigan, O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Neuberger of Oregon.

A Lost Art

Debating is a lost art at Salem High School. So is acting.

In the memorable past our high school debate teams captured honors in matches with other district schools but in recent years interest waned to the point where public speaking was finally abandoned.

This is unfortunate, we think.

The opportunity should be afforded high school boys and girls with keen minds who want to train themselves to speak well and think rapidly when on their feet. Some of the adults who have succeeded in business life credit their high school debate training as playing no small part in their success.

The Board of Education should insist that debating be revived.

Good Cleanup Job

The city administration is to be complimented for the efficiency displayed in keeping Salem streets open during the weekend snowstorm.

Service department ash trucks were busy on all streets Saturday night and again Sunday, with snowplows clearing the way on all principal thoroughfares. Crews with trucks and highlifts managed to shovel the deep snow from downtown streets so that today it's "business as usual."

Once Over

America got Alec Guinness in "Our Man in Havana" but Cuba got Mikoyan in the Russian version. Mikoyan Mutual Society picnic in Cuba was curious prelude to Ike's coming trip to Russia in the interest of better understandings.

Mikoyan flew to Cuba as an innocent traveling salesman but everybody knows he wasn't there in response to a drive for more pleasure seekers.

He was supposedly there to open the trade fair but there wasn't a marimba band instrument or a slot machine in the show.

Mikoyan could have said, "I come here in the interest of world trade but I hope it will not interrupt attacks on America." Bringing Castro response, "This is a great exposition and I would spend more time in it except that I can't take time out from abusing one of Cuba's oldest and best friends."

The Russian fair included a new type needle for needing U.S.A., an electronic pants kicker and a new book "Neighborliness Via the Rabbit Punch."

Castor's Society for Losing Friends now has Moscow help and there will be an exchange program of experts in vilification.

Cubans' top need is tourist trade but Mikoyan-Castro handclasp and honor guards are scaring tourists stiff.

City Income Tax Report

ionately in any benefits from improved municipal services or capital extensions.

Even further, in this instance, the proposed income tax would result in direct increased costs for all city consumers, by virtue of the contract provisions which permit the utilities to increase consumer rates by the amount required to compensate them for their taxes.

6-Major capital additions or improvement should not be financed with general operating funds. Such proposed projects should properly stand upon their own merit, relying upon popular vote for acceptance and financing.

7-An income tax adds another bureaucratic nuisance to the operation of business at a time when Salem is attempting to offer prospective new business an ideal environment.

8-There is no guarantee of complete privacy of personal income information.

9-The proposed income tax ordinance vests unusually broad inquisitorial powers in the office of City Auditor and at the same time places unfair responsibility for security upon that office.

10-Committee recommendations for alternative means to raise and conserve general fund income—

1-It is recommended that an impartial committee be appointed to meet with Council, the Mayor and the officials of the Ohio Edison Co. to study the feasibility of the Ohio Edison purchasing the lighting system that the city now owns—and for the Ohio Edison Co. to operate same.

The manager, and former manager of the Ohio Edison Co. informed representatives of this committee that such a move would save the city money annually, would give the city better lighting and more efficient service.

The city would be saved the expense of modernizing that section of the city that still has the underground lighting system. The city would also realize an estimated $73,000 purchase price for the city-owned equipment, which could immediately be put in to the General Fund.

The auditor and service director of New Philadelphia informed representatives of this committee that such an arrangement in New Philadelphia proved to be highly successful. They further said that practically all other comparable cities in Ohio had a similar arrangement, which fact was substantiated by the officials of the Ohio Edison Co. and by further studies of this committee.

2-It is recommended that City Council seek and obtain the cooperation of the Salem School Board to pay the cost of the School Board which is estimated to be $6,000 for 1960 and a more equitable apportionment of the millage between the city and the School within the 10-mill limits provided by statute.

The recent expansions and additions of the Salem School District, itself adequately financed through local levy, have imposed a continually increasing load upon the city's General Fund with no offsetting compensation.

3-It is recommended that City Council seek and obtain the cooperation of the City Utilities Commission to assume a greater share of the costs of city government in such areas as office rentals, lights, heat, etc. The Committee has learned that this is the practice in other cities.

4-It is recommended that the City Engineer or other authorized person regularly check city building permits against the tax duplicate to assure prompt inclusion for city income.

While it appears that additional revenue and economies may be effected by the adoption of some or all of the above recommendations, the relief provided may be insufficient to answer the long-range problem of General Fund revenues out of which refinements and extensions of our current basic services can be made to serve the growth that this city can reasonably expect.

5-The one really effective means of providing adequate and reliable future General Fund revenues, without periodic concern and doubt on the part of City Council is through the adoption of a municipal charter.

Such a charter could provide additional beneficial advantages, but the paramount benefit that is of concern to this committee is that, by charter, general operating millage above the 10-mill limit set for statutory municipalities (which is Salem's classification) may be levied without the necessity for constant renewal by vote.

Let some persons too quickly conclude that such a charter is just another devious means of imposing additional taxes, a short history of Ohio state statutory taxes for municipalities should be reviewed.

First of all, we should know that Ohio was the very first state to impose any limitation whatsoever on local property tax rates. It is still one of the few states which has a statutory limitation.

First of all, we should know that Ohio was the very first state to impose any limitation whatsoever on local property tax rates. It is still one of the few states which has a statutory limitation.

A 10-mill limit was first passed by the General Assembly in 1910. By 1927 10 mills was recognized as inadequate and the limit was increased to fifteen mills, and continued until 1933 when it was reduced to 10 mills as part of the austerity program during our great depression. The 10-mill limit has never been increased despite the opinion of many people that it is unnecessarily severe and unrealistic in view of the services that are currently demanded of municipalities.

With the knowledge that a majority of Ohio municipalities have levied operating fund taxes with consent of the voters over and above the 10-mill limit and that many cities have recently adopted or are now adopting city charters, we must recognize that Salem municipal services are actually operated on austere revenues.

The General Fund has been adequate up to this time only by virtue of the separate financing of water, sewer, and park departments to the relief of General Funds.

This committee does not propose that austerity is an undesirable quality in municipal or any other level of government, nor do we propose that a charter should guarantee unrealistic or excessive revenues for municipal operation.

Even an additional mill of general property tax, collected through the taxing machinery at our county seat and thus at no additional cost to our city, together with the suggested changes and economies, should, after our new tax duplicate is determined, provide general operating revenues in the neighborhood of $350,000 per year which should permit conservative additions and extensions of our municipal services until such time as our local economy can more easily absorb additional levies or amend the tax provision of a charter as necessary and as approved by a majority of the voters.

VI. Conclusion. Members of the Joint Committee concur unanimously in this report which represents their sincere and objective effort.

It is the expressed hope of this Committee that Salem City Council will give full consideration to the alternative recommendations offered.

This Committee will be available in the future if there should be a further desire or need for its services.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M. D.

Hardening of Arteries Is Common Problem

Hardening of the arteries is everybody's problem.

Until recently, arteriosclerosis was linked with death and taxes as something no one could avoid. Now we have solid reasons for softening this defeatist attitude.

Dr. H. T. Hyman

The fight against arteriosclerosis is primarily up to the individual. For effective discharge of this responsibility, each of us must clearly understand what's to be done, why it's to be done and how it's to be done.

I'LL TRY to explain what the arterial system is, how it functions, what causes its walls to become hardened, and what you can do to prevent or lessen arteriosclerotic damage.

To begin with, the arteries form a continuous system of branching tubes that carry blood from the heart to every organ, tissue and cell of the body.

Some arteries, like the aorta, are almost as big around as a garden hose. Others are so small they can only be seen under a microscope. But, whether large or tiny, each has a circular wall that contains countless elastic fibers.

EVERY TIME blood is pumped out of your heart, the force of the advancing stream causes your arteries to expand. After the pulse in the wrist vessel at the base of your thumb. With each beat, elastic fibers in the wall are stretched just as you'd stretch a rubber band.

Prove this by feeling the pulse beat, these fibers snap back just as a stretched band does after you release it.

THE FIRST SIGN of arterial trouble is a loss of zip by these elastic fibers. Like an old rubber band, they don't seem able to snap back after they've been stretched. Next thing you know, they start to fray, like a worn fiddle string when it's being tightened. Then comes the moment when they're stretched once too often and trouble really starts.

After a certain number of fibers break, the arterial wall loses its power to expand and contract with each beat of the heart. It's no longer "live." Instead of "giving" to the force of the oncoming blood column and adding its zip to hurry it along its way to hungry tissues, it behaves like a strip of rigid pipe in a plumbing system. With each pulse it shivers and shakes.

Perhaps with the idea of cushioning the damaged vessel, nature begins to deposit a buttery material in the inelastic wall. Then, to firm up the fatty deposit, lime salts are introduced.

SOON THE resultant mixture assumes a shell-like character with the formation of what are called arteriosclerotic plaques.

As the hardening wall thick-ens, the hole through the tube narrows. Now the heart has to pump harder and at a higher pressure to force blood to the tissues.

Soon a lime-encrusted plaque comes to the inner surface of the hardened vessel. Perhaps a particularly violent heartbeat scraps it off, leaving a raw surface. On this scrape, blood clots just as it does on your skin under similar circumstances. But there's this difference:

The skin clot falls off once it has served its purpose. Not so within the closed vessel where the clot forms a plug. If the plug is in an artery that feeds the brain, the patient may suffer a stroke.

If it's in a vessel that feeds heart muscle, the victim suffers a coronary thrombosis, closure or occlusion. If it's in a terminal vessel like that of a toe, the starved tissue may shrivel and fall off like a dry leaf in autumn.

Unpredictable Akron East Will Invade Salem Tuesday

Foe Has Won 9 Games, Lost 6

Owens 50-44 Decision Over St. Vincent

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Salem's Quakers will attempt to rebound from their stunning upset at the hands of Akron St. Vincent last week by taking out their wrath on another Akron quinte, East High School, Tuesday night in the Salem Senior High gym.

East has a highly unpredictable ball club, but one thing is certain: It has a much better record than St. Vincent and it owns a 50-44 victory over the Irish.

Akron East has won nine games and lost six this season. Besides St. Vincent, victims include Ravenna, Barberton, Akron Ellet, Akron Hower, Akron Buchtel, Akron St. Mars, Akron South and Akron Garfield.

EAST'S SIX defeats were administered by Massillon, Akron North, Cuyahoga Falls, Elyria, Akron Kenmore and Akron Central.

The same night Salem was getting set down 60-59 by St. Vincent, East was getting shellacked 89-66 by Central. Besides Central, only Elyria and Akron North have really drubbed East this season.

Central is currently tied with South for the lead in the Akron City League. Elyria is one of the powerhouse in the state. As for the 41-27 defeat by North, this is one point in proving just how unpredictable this East team is.

Akron North is the same team that Salem clobbered 77-37 here earlier in the year. East Coach Russ Estey explained his team's fluctuating tendencies this way: "Against good teams we play well and against bad teams we look bad. Against a very weak team like St. Vincent we couldn't do anything right and won by only six points."

EAST LOOKED quite impressive in its 43-41 win over Akron South. South owns a 50-48 victory over Central, the team that beat East by 23 points last week.

East has not been a high scoring team, but its defense has been tough until it broke down against Central. Most opponents have been hitting in the 40's against Coach Estey's quintet.

Sparkplug of the East scoring attack, has been Bob Cherry, 6-3 center. Cherry, a senior and the tallest regular on the squad, has been averaging about 18 points per game. He has been an all-city performer for two years.

OTHER STARTERS include Willie Reynolds, 6-0 junior forward; Eugene Cherry, 6-0 senior forward; Leonard Johnson, 5-11 junior guard; and Bill Saltgaver, 5-11 senior guard. Russ Wormald, 5-10 senior, on occasions nudges the usually low scoring Saltgaver out of the starting lineup.

The two Cherry boys in the starting lineup are brothers. Both of them are good shots. Reynolds can hit too. He hooped 24 points against Central last week.

Coach Estey, who has been basketball mentor at East for 22½ years, will be out to avenge a 78-61 plastering landed his team by the Quakers in Salem last year.

Tipoff time for the reserve game Tuesday will be 7 p.m. During intermission a wrestling and tumbling exhibition will be given by members of the Salem High school physical education classes.

Wellsville Rolls to Easy 74-53 Victory Over Goshen Union

Despite a 23-point scoring effort by Goshen's Lynn Barnett, the Gophers found the depth and over all class of Wellsville too much to overcome as the host Tigers rolled to an easy 74-53 cage victory Saturday at Beacom Memorial Gym.

Wellsville Coach Jack McDevitt substituted freely throughout the fray. Nine Tigers broke into the scoring column. Bob Kiggins, Wellsville's 6-3 junior forward, led the attack with 16 points.

Marietta Beats Liverpool 82-74

Winners Spurt In Final Period

Marietta, ranked number five in the latest AP poll, was forced to come from behind in the final quarter to defeat a stubborn East Liverpool quintet 82-74 Saturday in the Pottery City.

Tom Baker, Marietta's 64 pivot man, tossed in 30 points to take down scoring honors in the contest. Twelve of his points came on charity tosses. The Tigers outscored East Liverpool 30-16 from the foul line. The Potters had a 29-26 edge in field goals.

Kenny Cunningham kept East Liverpool in the game by pouring in 29 points. The 5-11 junior guard had set the modern scoring record at Memorial Auditorium the night before by registering 39 markers against Toronto.

Marietta's Frank Christie, an all-Ohio selection last year, hooped 19 points against the Potters. Christie has been averaging 19 points per game for the powerful Tigers. Baker carried a 21 point average into the fray.

East Liverpool maintained narrow leads at the quarters. The scores were 20-17, 46-42 and 64-63. Two local officials who worked the reserve game handled the first three quarters of the varsity tilt. John Russ and Ralph Robinson of Youngstown were scheduled to officiate the game, but slippery roads prevented the pair from reaching the game until the fourth period.

East Liverpool's record slipped to a 4-9 mark. Marietta has lost only to Newark in 14 games.

Henry Hank, Rodriguez Will Clash

By The Associated Press

Henry Hank, a Detroit middleweight with a good wallop, and Lenny Matthews, a stiff punching Philadelphia lightweight, promise to provide most of the week's boxing action.

Hank, forced to stray out of his weight class to get action, boxes Sixto Rodriguez of Mountain View, Calif., on the Wednesday show at Chicago Stadium. Hank stopped Jesse Bowdry Dec. 7 and repeated the job in six rounds Jan. 27 at Chicago.

The light heavy rankings show Rodriguez either No. 4 (National Boxing Assn.) or No. 5 (Ring). In his last three, the Puerto Rican-born boxer drew with Vol Clay, lost to Mike Holt in Johannesburg, South Africa and whipped Orlando Diptiro.

The Hank-Rodriguez bout will be seen on ABC-TV.

Matthews, a one-round knock winner over New York's Johnny Busso, Feb. 1, is ranked among the leading lightweights. Ring has him No. 6, the NBA No. 7. The Busso fight was his only 1960 start. Last year he won six of nine, losing to Willie Towel in his last appearance at Madison Square Garden.

Matthews' opponent Friday at the Garden will be Lahouari Godhi of France by way of Algeria. He took a Feb. 1 fight on short notice as a sub and won over Roger Harvey at the Academy of Music in New York.

The Matthews-Godhi scrap will be carried on network (NBC) radio and television.

Salem's 7th, 8th Grade Teams Lose

Salem's 7th and 8th grade basketball squads played at Canfield on Friday and both local teams came home losers.

Canfield won the 8th grade tilt 31-21 and copped the 7th grade fray 34-23.

The Cardinal 8th grade quintet was much improved over the squad which was trounced 40-24 at Salem earlier in the year. Canfield controlled the backboards and used a deliberate offense to confuse the Quakers.

Salem couldn't get its offense moving until the fourth quarter, but by that time it was too late.

Dick Wilt brought home 11 points for the Salem 7th grade, but his team went down to its fourth defeat in 12 games. The tall Canfield 7th graders displayed fine shooting ability against Salem.

This was the second time this season that the Salem 7th graders fell victim to Canfield. The previous setback was by a 31-20 score. The two local junior high squads will be in action again at 4:15 p.m. today at home against East Palestine.

Canfield Rips Springfield

Canfield shot itself into a tie with Lowellville for the Inter-County League lead by posting a 70-52 cage victory over visiting Springfield Local Saturday.

Both Canfield and Lowellville have 7-0 records in league play. The two loop powers will settle the title when they tangle at Lowellville on Friday. Since the Rockets play one more league game, Canfield must win Friday to claim the title.

Lowellville, which is unbeaten in 16 tilts this season, is a Class A school. Canfield, a Class AA outfit, has a 12-4 season mark.

Bill Anderson was Canfield's top scorer in his win over Springfield Local. He hooped 20 points on nine fielders and two fouls. Jim Albert was close behind with 17 markers.

Roger Myers flipped in 20 points for the Tigers. Jerry Randall added 14 markers and Wally Heck 12. The defeat was the 10th for Springfield Local. The Tigers have won six.

Canfield's reserve team, beaten only by Goshen this year, came out on top 46-37.

Beatty Wins Baxter Mile In 4:05.4

NEW YORK (AP) — Prosperity has suddenly struck Jim Beatty, a former North Carolina runner who never had won anything more important than a couple of Atlantic Coast Conference championships in his college days.

Already this season he has won two big races. He beat Max Truex, one of America's top distance runners in an 8:57 two-mile, and in the New York A. C. Games in Madison Square Garden last Saturday, won the Baxter Mile in 4:05.4.

"It wasn't very hard, really," said the 5-6 Beatty today. "All I did was what the coach told me."

The coach is Mihaly Igloi, the great Hungarian distance coach, who defected after the 1956 revolution and settled in Santa Clara, Calif. He coaches the Santa Clara Youth Village, and Beatty is one of his pupils.

Before the last Olympic Games, Igloi's stable of Hungarian distance runners held every world record from 1,500 meters right up to 10,000 meters.

In view of the troubles the United States has had developing distance runners—we haven't had an Olympic champion in anything from the 1,500 meters up except for Horace Ashenfelter in the steeplechase in 1952 since 1912—it might not be a bad idea to enlist Igloi's aid.

Beatty, 25, and a former rabbit for Ron Delany, barely beat out 19-year-old Dyrul Bureson of Oregon.

Top Buckeye Teams See Action Tonight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two of the season's biggest games are on tap tonight for Ohio's collegiate cagers.

One sends Ohio State's Buckeyes to Champaign for a game with Illinois, the other finds Toledo's Rockets in Athens for a tilt with Ohio University.

The Bucks, leading the Big Ten with 9-0, may have that mark dirtied a bit since they haven't won on the Illini floor since 1945. Illinois is tied for second with Indiana at 5-3, and before the curtain falls the Bucks must face the Hoosiers at Bloomington, defending champion Michigan State (5-5) at East Lansing, and fourth-place Minnesota (6-4) at Minneapolis.

Thus, despite their great record, the Bucks have no game with Illinois the rest of the way—although they are favored highly to breeze into the throne room.

Ohio U. and Toledo are deadlocked at 8-1 for the Mid-American loop lead, no one else having a chance since Bowling Green is closest with 4-4. Ohio U.'s lone loss was 63-53 at Toledo, while Bowling Green hung the lone setback on the Rockets by 86-82.

The Athens team, due to the potent home floor advantage, could well turn the tables on the Rockets. Host clubs hold an exact 2-1 advantage over the visitors this year, having won 310 and lost 155.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, who boosted his all-time scoring record to 2,693 for 78 games last week with a two-game 93-point surge, gets one chance to add to his national mark this week as the Bearcats go against Houston Saturday in Texas. The "Big O" has 731 points for his 20 games this year, a nation-leading average of 36.5.

Wittenberg could clinch at least a share of the Ohio Conference crown this week by beating Denison Tuesday, and Defiance could do the same in the Mid-Ohio by trimming Bluffton Wednesday.

Wittenberg, seeking its second straight crown in the sprawling Ohio loop, has a 9-0 record to second-place Muskingum's 9-2, while Defiance with 8-1 is far ahead of runnerup Ohio Northern's 6-3.

The big oddity in the Mid-Ohio is that Ashland, averaging 100.4 points for 10 games, has been able to win only six. The Eagles smothered Cedarville 134 to 93 Saturday—the season's top score in the state — after beating Lawrence Tech 102-93 the night before.

The Buckeye clubs continue to batter out-of-state opposition. Last week the Ohio's won 17 and lost 12 in interstate play, for a season record of 174-108, and a scoring advantage of 21,879 to 20,371.

Many Seek to Play Lisbon In Tourney

Word seems to have gotten around that the Lisbon Blue Devils have had rough sledding on the basketball courts this season. Nearly every Class AA team in the area apparently is smacking its lips to get at the Blue Devils in a tournament game.

Winners is only one of 15 contests this season, Lisbon has received various notifications that it will enter sectional tournaments at Canton, Alliance, Struthers and Youngstown.

Coach Gary Pike said the last notice he got asked him to attend the drawings tonight at Struthers. "I guess I'll go to Struthers and see what happens," Pike commented. "This happens to us every year."

The addition of Lisbon makes 16 teams which will compete at the Struthers sectional. This means there will be 15 teams participating at Youngstown where Salem Coach John Cabas will go tonight for drawings.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: We need advice from a stranger. You just don't talk to your clergyman about things like this.
Our daughter is 26. She has a good job in a big hotel. Her boy friend, Joe, works there as a bellhop. They've been going together 3 years. Joe has never once mentioned marriage although he's 30 and never takes out anyone but our Bessie.
He lives in a rooming house near us. Three nights a week he comes for dinner and uses our bathtub. He says it's impossible to get into the bathroom where he lives. We don't mind except he never cleans the tub after himself. Once I put a can of detergent right in the middle of the tub but he didn't take the hint.
We wouldn't care if we were sure he'd be in the family some day but we don't want to be taken advantage of. What do you think, Ann? — NO NAMES.

Dear No Names: I suspect the only ring you'll ever see is the one Joe leaves around the tub. A fellow 30 who has been going with a girl three years would surely have declared himself if he had any serious intentions.
Bessie should have a frank talk with Joe and tell him to walk down the aisle or take a walk.

Spendthrift Daughter
Dear Ann: Our 16-year-old complained bitterly that we never let her exercise her own judgment. She begged for more independence. My husband and I agreed to give her a chance.

We started by letting her have $500. This was supposed to take care of all her needs, including clothing, lunch money, spending money, club dues, transportation—whatever came along.

We gave her the money on her 16th birthday (Nov. 15). It was understood she was to get another $500 on May 15. In other words, a total of $1,000 total annual allowance.

Well, here it is February and she hasn't got a nickel to her name. She bought a satin evening coat, 20-inch white kid gloves, velvet lounging pants, gold harem slippers and a blonde wig "for kicks." I could use your entire column to list the foolish things she did with her money.

Now she whines that a girl can't go around penniless and she wants an advance on the next $500. What shall we do? — DISGUSTED.

Dear Disgusted: If you give this addle-brained kid another $500 you have less sense than she has.

She wanted a chance to use her own judgment and she got it. Give her exactly enough money for transportation and milk to go with the sandwiches she can carry from home. An additional 50 cents a week until May 1 should be the limit. Then put her back on a weekly allowance—and make it conservative.

100 Per Cent Sick

Dear Ann: "One hundred per cent Mom" made me "100 per cent sick."

"Why do parents get insulted when their kids are not included in every invitation? I don't blame a bride for saying, 'no kids,' at her wedding dinner and reception. This is supposed to be her happiest day and she has the right to want it to be as nearly perfect as possible.

I've seen some of these kids who are considered "little gentlemen" by their parents. They are usually hogging the sweet table, sliding around on the dance floor, fighting or nagging to go home. I probably will be called every name in the book by your readers. Nothing infuriates people like criticizing their children but I simply had to tell you, Ann, that I for one am with you 100 per cent in this. — PHOOEY ON KIDS AT FANCY PARTIES.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FAMILY ESCAPES FIRE

CLEVELAND (AP)—A child's illness may have saved her life and those of her brother and mother. The three decided to stay with a grandmother Saturday night and were safe when a smoldering fire destroyed most of their frame home in suburban Maple Heights Sunday.

The father, Michael W. Costanzi, was in a hospital at the time of the fire. His daughter, Michelle, 6, was sick and with her mother and brother, Michael, 10, spent the night with the grandmother.

FIVE HOMES BURGLARIZED

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Five West Side homes were burglarized over the weekend. Akron detectives said that in one of them $1,100 in currency was taken. Police said all the work apparently was by the same man. A pry bar was used to open doors and windows.

On Going to College

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—So you're graduating from high school this year, and you're already worried about whether you'll be able to get into the college of your choice?

Hundreds of thousands of boys have this problem.

College heads now can hand-pick their students. How can you be sure you'll be among the chosen, particularly if your marks aren't too high?

Well, if old-fashioned elbow grease won't do it, use a little of the right kind of soft soap. Do a selling job.

Your big hurdle is the dean of admissions. Once you're past him, you're usually in. So he's the one you have to snow-job. But how do you snow-job a college dean?

By being different. In age of dull conformity, colleges like to brag about turning out individual individuals—whether they really do or not.

Deans of admission get weary of interviewing day after day clear-eyed, apple-cheeked young applicants from happy, unbroken homes—the wholesome kids who look like the boy next door in the magazine ads. Too many of them grow up and become trustees.

An alert dean wants the shock of something new that will add a quaint touch to the campus as proof that his college still has room for the arty iconoclast, the unfettered dreamer, the incipient Van Gogh.

So don't wear your neat high school graduation suit to the interview. Slouch into his office in a beret, paint-stained jeans, an old Army fatigue jacket, and sockless sandals.

You should be carrying a coffee-stained volume of T. S. Eliot's "Ash Wednesday," a slide rule, and an album of Bach's fugues.

"I see you're interested in mathematics," says the dean, eyeing your slide rule.

"I despise mathematics," you reply. "It is the last refuge of orthodoxy. Euclid was nothing but a self-righteous dogmatist."

"I use the slide rule to compose my sonnets—in fourth dimensional verse, of course."

These offhand remarks should wipe out any prejudice on the part of the dean against your low grades in high school. The flame of your genius in his eyes will rise above the ashes of your past report cards.

But he has that final question with which he traps most candidates.

"Why did you pick this college?" he asks.

"Because I am a free spirit," you answer, putting your hand on your heart. "I want to fly, to soar. And this college is to me what that lonely North Carolina sand dune was to the Wright brothers—a Kitty Hawk of the mind."

You have him now. The dean is in tears. He not only wants you in his college. He offers you a scholarship in any field you choose—from archery to Zen Buddhism.

If this act doesn't get you into the university, nothing will. Maybe you'd better try the nearest barber college.
